Historical Note

The Public Health Service Hospital in Carville, LA opened as the Louisiana Leper Home in 1894 by order of the Louisiana State Legislature. The Daughters began to work there under contract with the state in 1896 to provide care for the patients suffering from Hansen's disease, often erroneously and stigmatically called leprosy. Until 1950, all cases of leprosy required mandatory stays at Carville by law, effectively becoming imprisonments. The Daughter administrators oversaw a number of improvements to the site, including dormitories, dining rooms, and infirmaries. In 1920, Louisiana sold the Home to the United States Federal Government in accordance with Senate Bill number 4086 to establish a National Leprosarium. In 1921, the United States Public Health Service (USPHS) assumed control and the hospital became the United States Marine Hospital 66, or the National Leprosarium of the United States. Beginning in 1933, a laboratory began at the site under Sister Hillary Ross, which eventually succeeded in finding the successful sulfone treatments in the 1940s, which began to allow for outpatient care in most cases. In the 1971, Capt. Robert R. Jacobson discovered the Rifampin multi-drug therapy, and in 1981, Hansen's disease officially became an outpatient diagnosis. In 1982, the newly organized Health Resources and Services Administration took over federal responsibility for Carville, and in 1986, the facility was renamed the Gillis W. Long Hansen's Disease Center. IN 1998, Congress passed a law closing the center, and allowing the few remaining patients the option of remaining or relocating. In 1999, the State of Louisiana resumed control of the property and transformed it into a camp for at-risk youth. In 2005, the Daughters of Charity officially withdrew from Carville.

Scope and Contents
